At first, photography was difficult. Noah often took blurry pictures, and he sometimes forgot important camera settings. However, he practised every weekend and slowly improved.

A few months later, Noah entered a local photography competition. Although he did not win first prize, one of his pictures was displayed in a community centre. Noah was very proud of his achievement.

Today, photography is still his favourite hobby. He enjoys taking pictures of nature and animals and hopes to become a wildlife photographer one day.
